

Telecommunication and Renewable Agreements

Telecommunications and Renewable Energy schemes are frequently changing and specialist advice is paramount.

Alexanders team of surveyors is able to advise on a range of services to ensure any telecoms or renewable energy project is a viable and realistic option.

Renewable energy sources are a growing and diverse area, requiring specialist knowledge on the technical and practical issues surrounding any project. Whether you are considering wind power or solar, all options need careful and planned advice.

As telecommunications change, so too does the need for a well managed site and greater diversity. Alexanders advises on single sites, site sharing and removal and erection of telecommunications equipment.

We pride ourselves on offering you the latest advice on all aspects surrounding telecommunications and renewable including, option agreements and planning.

